Have you lost or damaged a library book, and you need to know what to do about it?

Replacement Charges Materials not returned or returned with excessive damages that make the item(s) unusable will be subject to replacement charges. Replacement charges set by the library include the cost of time to prepare the item for public use in addition to the cost of the item itself. If unreturned items or damaged items are part of a set (i.e. cassettes, a book/cassette combination, a CD/book combination, a movie on more than one tape) the replacement charge will be the charge of the entire set. Replacement charges on some items may be increased if the item is out of print and/or is one that the library has intended for permanent retention in the collection. In some cases, out of print or rare materials are tremendously expensive to replace and replacement charges will reflect this cost. If you need to replace library materials, the library is only able to accept payment of materials replacement charges. We cannot accept new books or other materials instead of the replacement charge.

Refund Policy

- 100% refund on lost material found within 60 days.
- 70% refund on lost material found after 60 days.
- Lost material found after 6 months no refund.
- No refund given on fines.

Damaged Materials If an item is damaged while in your possession, do not try to repair it. Please bring the damage to the attention of library staff when you return the item. The library has staff specially trained in book repair and sometimes having to undo an incorrect book repair can cause further damage to the book.
